What Are Lactation Cookies?

What you eat and consume can impact your child through breast milk, so now is the time to practice healthy and intentional snacking. A trendy way to boost your vitamin intake and milk supply, lactation cookies might be your favorite snack during your breastfeeding period.

The magic of these cookies lies within the specific ingredients that promote lactation in humans. These ingredients include galactagogues, brewer's yeast, wheat germ (contains vital zinc levels), and oats (high in fiber).

However, do not think these cookies are only for breastfeeding mothers. Lactation cookies can be enjoyed safely by any family member or friend.

Being a new mom, or an experienced one can be overwhelming with maintaining the health of your baby, your family, and YOURSELF. Juggling the food shopping, the meal prep, and the cooking can be stressful, and you will find yourself opting for easier options, rather than the healthier options.

Here at Milk Makers Co., we believe you should not have to choose between health or ease. Our lactation cookies are made with organic ingredients, are low-glycemic, and gluten-free (for dietary purposes only). These nutrient-dense cookies are perfect for breastfeeding moms.

All of our ingredients are NON-GMO and preservative-free. As a breastfeeding mother myself, I understand that what I eat impacts my little ones. We ensure no funny business will be transferred to your baby through your breastmilk.

Our cookies are freshly baked per order request and are shipped twice a week on Sundays and Wednesdays. If you are craving a yummy snack that can help with your breastfeeding, then order your lactation cookies today!
